

Sprint Report 3
FakeNooz
By the Scrumbags
March 11, 2018

Action to stop doing: Many of our scrum meetings during this Sprint were missed by most of the group for various reasons. Two-person scrum meetings do not benefit the group as a whole.

Action to start doing: There is not much to start doing, seeing as the project is over. We should begin practicing our various product presentations and demonstrations, making sure that everyone is on the same page and understands how the projects functions in full.

Action to keep doing: Staying up-to-date and participating with Slack messaging, identifying and fixing bugs with our program.

Work Completed: We investigated different methods for presenting readable information to the user, including pronoun linking and a summarizing applet that functioned well. We organized, optimized, and beautified the GUI. We refactored and modularized the code and applied SOLID principles to our design to reduce dependencies, including a database to store articles.

Work Completion Rate: 3 user stories completed, 25 of 25 hours completed. 18 days for completion of entire sprint. 7 days per user story and around 1.4 hours per day of workload. For entire project, 6.6 hours average per user story, and an average of 2.3 of work hours per day.

Sprint 3 Burnup Chart

